Weapon in Sheppard
Case an Issue

By THOMAS R. CASTOR
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) -
The missing murder weapon in the 1954 slaying of Marilyn Sheppard remained an issue today as the murder retrial of Samuel H. Sheppard went into a half-day session.

The jury of seven men and five women will be given the afternoon off by Common as Judge Francis J. Talty so they can vote in the general election.

The theory that Marilyn was beaten to death with a surgical instrument was introduced into

MEET SANDY Roberts of Milpitas, Calif. Sandy, Miss Teen-Age America for 1967, was chosen over 63 other contestants in competition in Dallas.

Voters Beat Act 1 by Wide Margin

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Voters soundly defeated Tuesday proposed Initiated Act No. 1, which would have required the consolidation of most schools with less than 400 pupils.

The unofficial count with 2-194 of 2,649 precincts reported was:

For the act 62,216; against 227,266.

It was the first statewide school consolidation vote in 18 years. Initiated Act No. 1 of 1948, which was approved, reduced the number of school districts from 1,589 to 424.

The fight against this year's proposal was led by rural forces who organized the Arkansas Rural Education Association in February when it appeared there would be a major effort to force consolidation.

Opponents received support from both gubernatorial candidates, Winthrop Rockefeller and Jim Johnson, and from Gov. Orval Faubus.

Rural educators said the small schools were educating children well and that to ghost towns in the state. Proponents of the measure contended that small schools were expensive to operate and that their curricula was inadequate.

Joshua K. Shepherd, a Little Rock insurance executive, T spearheaded the campaign for passage of the measure and had the tacit approval of the leadership of the Arkansas Education Association, including Executive Secretary Forrest Rozzell, who had advocated school consolidation for several years.

The proposed act would have dissolved all districts with less than 400 students by June 1.

The state board could reject or accept any plan. One provision of the act would make allowances for "isolated schools."

A total of 132 districts would have been affected by the act.
The state presently has 400 school districts.

the retrial Monday by Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, Cuyahoga County coroner, who was the state's star medical witness in the first trial 12 years ago.

Sheppard, formerly an osteopath, was convicted in 1954 and served nine years in the Ohio Penitentiary before winning a retrial through federal courts.

Gerber said the murder weapon could have been a serratedtoothlike surgical instrument such as bone forceps.

During intensive cross-examination defense counsel F. Lee Bailey of Boston asked the coroner about a conversation Gerber supposedly had with a Dr. Max
Don of Bay View Hospital June 4, 1954, a month before Marilyn was slain.

"Did you ever say you were going to get the Sheppard family?" Bailey asked.

"No," Gerber replied. "Whoever says that is a liar, I deny it."

Gerber injected the surgical-instrument theory when Bailey asked him to explain why the bloodstains on Marilyn's pillow could not have been made by doubling the pillow, as in fending off an attacker.

Sheppard is on trial for second-degree murder.

Visiting Queen

First reigning queen to visit the United States was Queen Kapiolani of Hawaii.

As the reigning queen of the island kingdom, she was the official guest of the nation in May, 1887.

two years ago, but he stayed with Johnson all the way and experts gave him a 50-50 chance of winning when the voting started.

Rockefeller, failed, however, to carry a Republican lieutenant governor and attorney general into office with him. Democrat Joe Purcell defeated Republican Jerry Thomasson for attorney general and Democrat James Pilkington had an apparent victory over Maurice Britt for lieutenant governor.

Rockefeller ran best in the cities and in northwest Arkansas, a territory with strong Republican leanings which appeared on the verge of electing Republican John Paul Hammer-schmidt over veteran Democratic Rep. J. W. Trimble in the 3rd District.

With 670 of 796 precincts reported, the unofficial count showed: Hammerschmidt 53,885, Trimble 51,083.

Democrat David Pryor easily defeated Republican Lynn Lowe for a vacant seat in the 4th District in Arkansas congress-sional race.

Sen. John L. McClellan and Democratic Reps. E. C. Gath-ings in the 1st District and Wilbur Mills in the 2nd District elected without opposition.

Rockefeller went home about 2:15 a.m. without claiming victory, but he said, "The trend looks as though it's moving in my favor. My opponent has not conceded defeat. On the morrow, when he does, I will have further things to say."

He said that, even if he had not won, the enthusiasm and effort generated by his campaign proved that Arkansas had a meaningful two-party system.

Johnson left his headquarters about midnight.

"I'll have nothing further to say until 10 a.m.," he said as he departed. An aide whispered to a newsmen, "All is lost."

Rockefeller said he holds news conference in mid afternoon, giving Johnson a would chance to concede first.

Several factors contributed to defeat of Johnson who won the Democratic nomination in a divisive seven-man primary.

He is a segregationist and Arkansas has trended toward moderation. He first criticized the Faubus administration, then invited Faubus and his friends into his camp. He criticized President Lyndon B. Johnson but gave key roles in his campaign to staunch supporters of the President.

This was Johnson's second defeat in a governor's race. Faubus beat him easily in 1956 when he ran on a segregationist platform.

Race was a background factor in this race rather than an issue because neither candidate chose to discuss it. Johnson admitted to being a segregationist but denied being a racist.
Everybody recognized Rockefeller as a moderate without being told.

Rockefeller racked up a margin of 22,000 votes in Pulaski County and that was most of his eventual margin of victory.

Rockefeller moved to Arkansas in 1953, selecting this state, he said, because it was the home of a wartime buddy, the late Frank Newell of Little Rock.

Arkansas welcomed him and he quickly shed his New York predicted, the close race left open the possibility that the Ar-nall write-in could block a majority for either nominee. That would, under state law, throw the election into the legislature, but a court suit is certain in that event.

Arnall supporters organized a write-in because they considered both Maddox and Calla-way, both conservatives, too far to the right.

Maddox, 51, who shut down a cafeteria and sold out rather than desegregate, had rolled up huge majorities in many rural counties.

Callaway was elected two years ago as the only GOP congressman in Georgia.

vention voted Monday night to sever the Arkansas Baptist Medi-

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Brown and his little friends celebrated Halloween on CBS Thursday night and demonstrated that faith and an optimistic attitude triumph in the end.

The worried little cartoon character, Charlie, continues to have a hard time. He was invited to his first Halloween party but hard-hearted Lucy immediately chopped him down by telling him that it was a mistake. When he went out trick-or-treating, the other kids wound up with the money and the candy. He got a bag of rocks. But in the end, he was certain he had been having fun.

Chief protagonist of "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown," was his friend, Linus, the boy with the blanket. Linus, although jeered by his pals, shivered all night in a pumpkin patch awaiting the arrival of "The Great Pumpkin Who Flies Through the Air and Brings Toys to All the Children in the World."

As in two past specials about Charlie, the half-hour animated show had charm, adult wit and wisdom.

Halloween, naturally, is a big occasion for the chic and unspooky witches and warlocks of ABC's "Bewitched." The annual show Thursday night hunt the story — carelessly — around an All Hallow's Eve party thrown by the witch Endora for the inner circle.

It was not up to the usual standard of the comedy since it relied almost entirely on trick photography for laughs. It just wasn't very amusing.

Many of the daytime game shows make a specialty of using "celebrity guests" who star in evening shows on their own networks.

One of the contestants on Thursday afternoon, "To Tell the Truth" on CBS just happened to be the director of CBS, "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown," and not only was the evening special plugged repeatedly but a bit of it was previewed for the home audience.

The whole segment, including the plug occupied close to one-third of the half-hour program. ABC is expected to complete by this weekend plans for mid-season replacements and for shifting shows to new time spots.

One new series will certainly be a comedy western, "Rango," since the network is planning to send its star, Tom Conway, late of "McHale's Navy" on a multi-city promotion tour next week.

Another probable replacement will be the British-made "Avengers," a bomb as a replacement last season but it won favorable audience attention during the summer.

"Hawk" and "Shane" are "definite casualties and it is expected that "12 O'Clock High" and "The Man Who Never Was" will be out.

"IDIOTOCRACY," HE CALLS IT Dear Helen: My wife calls family life a democracy, our kids call it a monarchy, my mother-in-law thinks it's despotism, but sometimes I figure it's pure "Idiotocracy."

Take the matter of money. Around here they borrow from Peter to pay Paula who has to have "coins" for Jean's birthday present; but meanwhile Peter goes broke, so gets an advance on his allowance, week when whoever-it-was returns the money he borrowed from, lessee, who was it? Things like that.

The financial transactions that go on around here every school morning would make a computer flip it's bolts.

Then there is the case of the new bicycle. Four months ago our daughter was a little girl whose bike was aces. Then she started junior high and there it sits in the garage — "for little kids." But all is not lost. My wife rides in the "housewives hips-away" club every morning.

I came home the other night to find my wife learning the twist or some such from our eight-year-old, while Paula was trying to read while balancing on her head.

I could go on for a whole page, but you get the point. "Idiotocracy" is a good description of family life, right?

And why do I like it that way? — HAPPY IDIOT

Dear Helen: Why not? Is there any better way to live happily ever after? — H.

PERSONAL TO "HURT": Console yourself with this thought: Some people wear high hats to cover their sharp heads. Who needs her? — H.

WAIT AND HOPE Dear Helen: I am the mother of an 18-year-old girl who is not engaged yet, but is going very steady with a boy of 21. I say "boy," because he is. He seems to be very immature and under his mother's wing. They have discussed marriage, which prompted his mother to call me.

The mother tells me he is not ready to get married, cannot accept responsibility, saves no money and is strictly out for a good time. She says her boy is just leading my daughter on and has no serious intentions. What should I do? Try to break up this romance or let things slide and see what happens? — SAD MOTHER

Dear Mother: Onedominer Mama is enough! Be an understanding Mother who discusses situation with her daughter but lets her make her own decisions. In other words, let things slide until they come to a screeching halt — "Mama" will see to that! — He.

Dear Helen: I had a nervous and had to spend seven months in a State hospital. Before that our marriage of three years was perfect, almost.

While I was away, My husband moved in with another woman. He said he was lonely. When I came home, he said he felt too guilty to live with me though he still loved me. Then he moved away, stopped sending support, and eight months later I located him — living with another woman. Again, he swore he loved me and our son, but couldn't afford to come home. His new non-wife was expecting a baby.

It's been almost four years. He calls me frequently says he wants us back, but has only visited me once. Then he told me he was home for keeps, but had to return for his clothes and valuables. He went back to his other family and that's the last I've seen of him.

He sends no support though he's making good wages. I suggest a divorce and he begs me to wait a little longer.

I met a wonderful man here who loves me and my son, but I believe in my marriage vows.

Without a divorce I will not look at another man. And I can't afford to see a lawyer. I know my husband wouldn't pay him.

How much longer must I wait? — TIRED

Dear Tired: You've waited much too long already. Legal Aid Society fees are low. Call the number listed in the phone book (or ask the Welfare Agency to contact the Society for you) and you will get the advice you need. — H.

He Doesn't Fiddle on Grid Field

By CAROLYN FOCHT
Columbus Dispatch Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wheststone concert master Bud Jenkins streaked 64 yards last week for a touchdown, proving once again he doesn't fiddle around on the football field.

When opponents learn Bud (Walter on official records) is also his high school's first string violinist, they come up with wisecracks—then get cracked. "It makes me mad," Bud said, "so I show them how hard a violin player can hit."

A rare blend of artistic and athletic talent, Bud is as nimble on the field as on the concert stage.

The 5-foot 8-inch, 175-pound defensive linebacker is co-captain of the Wheststone Braves and holds approximately the same rank—concert master—in the prize-winning orchestra.

Before a game, he blasts wild stirring music over the stereo "get the adrenalin going." He used to play "Finlandia" but broke the record and switched to the "Barber of Seville," and before a concert, naturally he limbers up.

He started playing the violin at the age of seven because his mother wanted him to play something. "I picked the violin because of all the action," Bud laughed.

Bud's father, John, formerly directed the Neil Avenue Methodist Church choir and taught music in schools at Alexandria and Homer, Ohio. His mother also "sings quite a bit."

Smithy Still In Critical Condition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas football player Claude Smithy remained in critical condition Tuesday night in a Houston hospital. Smithy also remained unconscious.

Smithy, a defensive lineman, collapsed in the Razorback dressing room after playing briefly in the Oct. 29 game at College Station.

Doctors operated to remove a cranial blood clot, the same affliction which had kept him out of action in the 1965 season. He had returned to the team this year with a doctor's permission.

Ortez Sets Up Camp

CHATHAM, N.J. (AP) — Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz set up quarters at Ehsan's training camp here Tuesday for his Nov. 28 title fight against the Philippines' Flash Elorde at Madison Square Garden in New York.

The Garden, making the announcement, said Elorde would arrive in San Francisco Nov. 14, work out there two days and fly to New York Nov. 18.

Brown Runs Kickoffs All the Way

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Timmy Brown did something Sunday that never had been done before in the long history of the National Football League. By returning two kickoffs for touchdowns on runs of 93 and 90 yards, the fleet halfback became the first repeater of the season by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The two returns by the 200-pound Philadelphia halfback were instrumental in the Eagles' 24-23 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings excited coach Norm Van Brocklin to comment "sensational, incredible, whatever adjectives you can think of" for his play in upsetting the Green Bay Packers.

"I think he made 11 first down plays," said Van Brocklin.

However, Brown's runs will go into the record book to be recalled long after the Vikings' upset of the Packers has been forgotten.

Timmy got the long angle on Mike Johnson, Warren Livingston and Obart Logan on his 93-yard run and went all the way, despite a desperate lunge by Livingston were coming at him near the sidelines but he played one against the other and escaped.

"They had been kicking to the right most of the time and sending the most men down that side of the field," said Brown. "So I ran to the left."

Coach Joe Kuharich said study of Dallas movies showed the Cowboys left three men on the left side of the field and jammed the other side.

Favorites Picked for Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Using the back of an old ballot, to figure out the winners of this Saturday's major college football games:

Notre Dame over Duke: The Irish can let Jim Seymour heal another week so that he will be hale for the Nov. 19 go-around with Michigan State.

Michigan State over Indiana: Clint Jones of the Spartans slowly rounding into form for that coming clash of unbeaten with Notre Dame.

Alabama over South Carolina: Paul Dietzel, new South Carolina coach, will wonder why he forsook Army for an afternoon such as this.

Nebraska over Oklahoma State: The Husker attack is ferocious and the defense punishing.

Georgia Tech over Penn State: Tech's Engineers got their first last week when they barely slipped past Virginia 14-13.

UCLA over Stanford: Simply not enough Stanfords to corral Gary Beban.

Georgia over Auburn: Auburn has come a long way since the start of the season but Georgia has been there since last year because of its defense and a pair of fullbacks. A Georgia victory means at least a tie for the SEC title.

Tennessee over Mississippi: Dewey Warren an able sub for Charley Fulton at quarterback for the Vols.

Purdue over Minnesota: The Gophers have the runners but Purdue's passer, Bob Griese, will get the points easier and quicker.

Florida over Tulane: Steve Spurrier gets the Gators back on the winning track.

Favorable Weather Aids Palmer, Nicklaus

TOKYO (AP) — Unusually favorable November weather put the Yomiuri golf course in perfect shape Monday for the Canada Cup, and helped make the star American team of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer the ruling favorites.

The big international tournament, which starts Thursday, has drawn two-man teams from 36 countries.

The defending individual champion is Gary Player of South Africa. South Africa is also the defending team titlist, with Harold Henning teaming with Player. The South Africans loom as the chief challengers to the Americans.

Between You'n' Me

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — When Johnny Roland was in the camp of the College All-Stars last July, training to play against the Green Bay Packers in his debut as a pro. Sunday was considered a day off.

The players scattered to assorted sites like Calumet City, Howard Street, The Loop and, for the aesthete, the Chicago Natural History Museum. Roland retired to a bucolic suburban retreat called Lake Forest, and on the 7th day he practiced football with the St. Louis Cardinals, who trained there.

That is the measure of his devotion to his new profession of football, and why Roland has almost no serious challenger in sight for rookie-of-the-year honors in the National Football League.

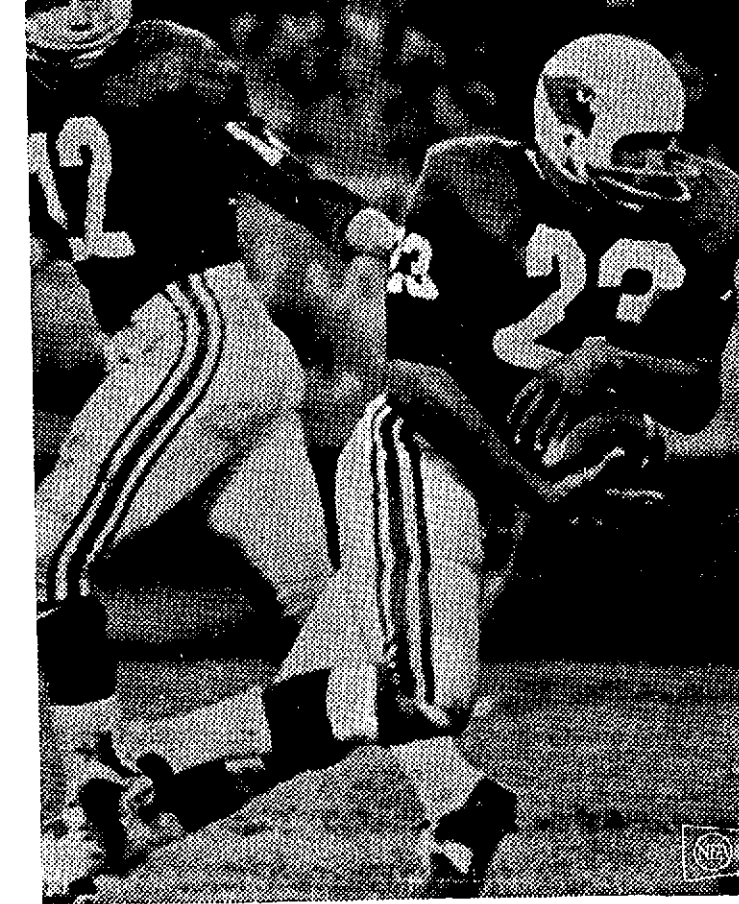

"He works hard," says Bill Koman, the veteran linebacker of the Cardinals. "knows his assignment, makes no mistakes and never complains. He's a pro."

The young "pro" is the heavy-duty halfback of the Cardinals, who enjoy a healthy game and a half lead in the Eastern Conference of the NFL. He's their leading ball carrier and the top punt return man in the league. Johnny has Bill Triplett, who led the Cardinals in ground-gaining last year, nailed to the bench. Triplett has carried the ball once in nine games.

Most recently, against the New York Giants, Roland ducked into the line 23 times, an arduous afternoon's exercise he couldn't have anticipated a year ago. Because then Roland was playing defensive halfback for the University of Missouri in All-American style and leaving the ball carrying to others. That's one reason he took those extra drills with the Cardinals last summer as an All-Star—to brush up on the feeling of having 250-pound linemen chase him.

"That's the amazing part of pro ball," he says, "—that these linemen are so big and agile. It's hard to run around them. I tell you. They've got the speed of backs."

Now a back who hasn't run the 100 in a clocking of 9.5 seconds, according to his press releases, should feel as ill-equipped as a go-go dancer with the gout. But Johnny admits

JOHNNY ROLAND
Wheeling and dealing for the Cards.

he has never broken 10 seconds and doesn't feel he has suffered for it.

"He has just enough speed," says Koman, "to go around the end."

He also has 215 well-displaced pounds to absorb the punishment that comes from men aiming their bodies at him in violent collision. Coach Charlie Winner wants him to get the weight up to 220, and Johnny promises to comply by next season. Like every backfield rookie, the biggest transition from college to pro ball involved the learning of blocking techniques, his assignment as a pass protector against blitzing linebackers and charging defensive end. The extra weight will help him.

The Cardinals aren't exactly surprised by the big rush that Roland has provided in their offense, because they invested sums variously estimated at a quarter of a million dollars to keep the big halfback in Missouri and away from the New York Jets, who had also drafted him as a possible running mate for Joe Namath.

"But a lot of kids with big scouting reports," notes coach Winner of the Cardinals, "don't always justify them. Johnny Roland has lived up to his. He's done everything we asked him to do."

Theoretically, Johnny would have been doing it a year ago. He was a contemporary of Gale Sayers, the great halfback of the Chicago Bears. Sayers enrolled at Kansas and Roland at Missouri, and they played in a memorable freshman game which ended in a 21-21 tie. But after Roland's sophomore season, he was embroiled in a car tire caper which postponed his varsity career for a year. (With muted reports that Johnny actually took the rap for a college teammate.)

So Gale was unchallenged as a rookie star last year, when he made his sensational debut with the Bears. And Johnny has the field to himself in 1966. Which is a nice way to equate outstanding talent.

Head of the Biotron, Harold A. Senn, calls his work "the science of the next decade."

The Biotron, unique in science, according to officials, will open at the end of this year. While basic research likely will be concerned with the life and growth of animals and plants in various climates controlled by the scientists, such problems as air pollution and living on other planets also will be examined.

"We can program the computer to add different gases to the air in some of the rooms, and so we can simulate atmospheric pollution to a degree," Senn said.

In space research, the Biotron can be used to simulate the conditions astronauts might find in the cabin of a space capsule or under a domed enclosure on the moon or Mars.

Scintillating QB Gives Purdue Edge in Battle for Rose Bowl Bid

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Egad, friends, upsets continue to plague the prognosticators but, as usual, The Hoople System is functioning in its customary high class manner!

On last week's difficult card, your favorite forecaster gave you 30 winners, but 9 losers and one tie encounter for a sparkling 769 batting average — har-rumph! And that astronomical average, mind you, is the result of handicapping 40 leading collegiate contests matching 80 major pigskin powers — hah-kaff!

Enough for past history! Now let us turn our attention to Minneapolis where some history will be made this Saturday as Purdue wins its first-ever ticket to the Rose Bowl. The infallible Hoople Plan predicts the Boiler-makers, with classy Bob Griese at the controls, will clinch the New Year's Day berth by stopping a determined Minnesota club, 28-20, in a bruising battle.

In a top flight Southeastern Conference clash, watch for upset-minded Georgia to finish on the short end of a 15-10 count in its meeting with improving Auburn — and remember, you read it first in the Hoople Selections — kaff-kaff!

The mighty Spartans of Michigan State and the amazing Irish of Notre Dame will warm up for their national championship showdown next Saturday, by registering decisive victories over Indiana and Duke this weekend. For Michigan and its high-stepping Clint Jones, it'll be a 35-0 romp over Indiana at Bloomington. Meanwhile, not too many miles away, Notre Dame will prove to be an ungracious host as it chastises visiting Duke, 36-6.

Concentrating

Two other engagements that promise to be memorable ones feature Arkansas and Southern Methodist and Nebraska against dangerous Oklahoma State.

Your humble correspondent foresees Arkansas turning back the Mustangs by a narrow 22-18 margin, and Oklahoma State falling before the Cornhuskers by the identical score — um-kumph!

Now go on with the forecast. Alabama 26, So. Carolina 6 Oregon 16, Arizona 37 Wash. St. 29, Arizona 3 Auburn 15, Georgia 10

Maxwell Injures Hamstring Muscle

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Tailback Bruce Maxwell re-injured himself in practice Tuesday as the University of Arkansas Razorbacks prepared for Saturday's game with Southern Methodist University.

Maxwell has been out with a pulled hamstring muscle since the week of the Wichita game.

Head coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday Maxwell hurt himself again "like we were afraid he would with a pulled muscle like that," Maxwell was trying to run through some plays when he re-injured the leg.

The Porkers worked out for an hour and 20 minutes, and Broyles said "We had a pretty good learning day."

Injured defensive tackle Loyd Phillips was running some in sweat clothes Tuesday. Phillips suffered a sprained ankle in last Saturday's game with Rice.

Crows Are A Problem in Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Residents of the picturesque town of Klang have a problem - crows - some 300,000 of them, by estimate.

A visitor can see them perched ready to swoop, on trees, walls and even on the gold-domed palace of the sultan.

Hardest hit are the open air markets. "They dart down in swarms and steal anything before you can say shoo," one stallkeeper complained.

Housewives have had items snatched out of their hands.

A municipal law says shooting below eye level is unlawful and it seems somebody told the crows. The sight of a gun brings them quickly to the ground.

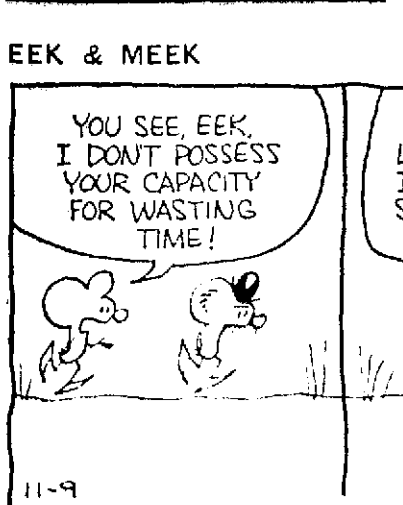

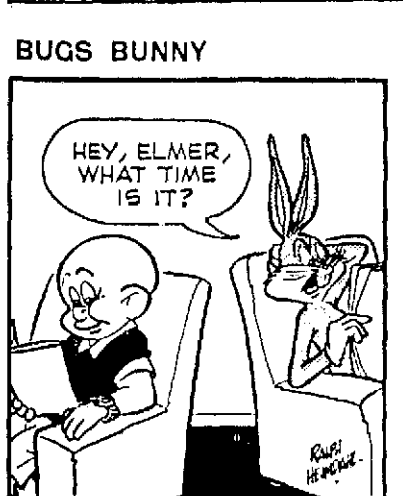

The game warden has offered a reward of 30 cents per dead crow. So far this year only $6 has been paid.

Two Sicilies
The Kingdom of the Two Sicilies consisted of the Kingdom of Naples in southern Italy and the Kingdom of Sicily on the island of Sicily. At times, the kingdoms were united and called the Two Sicilies.

Oswald: "How would you go about getting to four hearts with the North South hands?"

Jim: "I would start by sitting North. Then I would get a partner who never wanted to play a hand. Then I would just keep on bidding hearts and maybe he might let me play the heart game."

Oswald: "When you find such a partner send him to me. I have had lots of partners who wanted to let me be declarer but somehow or the other I can't imagine even one of them giving up that spade suit."

Jim: "When today's hand was played in the New Orleans tournament every South played spades and most of them played four spades. Even with the normal club lead there is a defense to beat four spades. There is no defense that will beat four hearts."

Oswald: "The club lead is normal because East bid a club. The defense after that lead is quite difficult."

Jim: "East wins the club and notes the fall of South's queen. He sees that the only real chance to beat four spades will be to find South with three diamonds and that he must make it impossible for South to run dummy's hearts. Then he leads the jack or ten of diamonds."

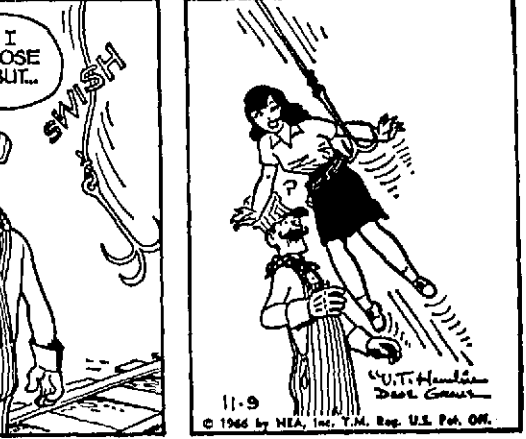

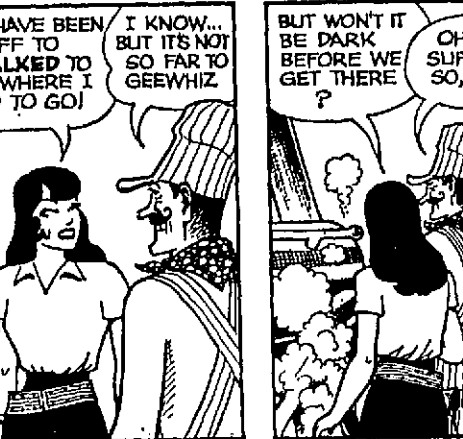

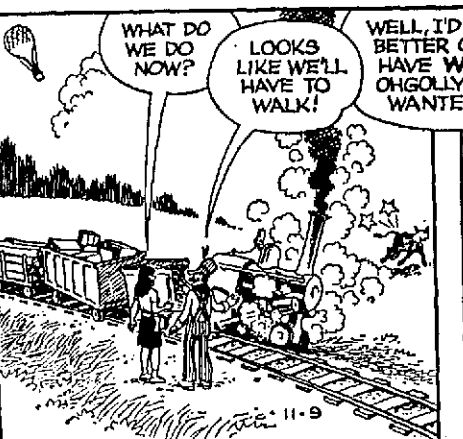

Oswald: "After that play it is up to East to hold off exactly one heart."

Jim: "There is a convention to make this easy for East. West plays his deuce on the first heart lead. In that spot you play low to show an odd number and high to show an even number."

Republicans Gain in Congress

Washington (AP) — Republicans stormed up the comeback trail in Tuesday's election with impressive victories for 1968 presidential possibilities and a quicker threat to the future of President Johnson's "Great Society" program.

The GOP won with such big names as George Romney for governor in Michigan, Ronald Reagan for governor in California and Charles H. Percy for the U.S. Senate in Illinois.

This posed the prospect of a showdown for the Republican presidential nomination two years hence among liberal-striped Romney and Percy and conservative Reagan, who used to be a Democrat. Each of the three hung up massive victories.

In battles for Senate seats, the Republicans and Democrats fought to pretty much the expected standoff.

But in House races, the Republicans knifed into Democratic strength enough to spell real trouble for some of Johnson's legislative proposals in the next Congress.

The Democrats never were in danger of losing statistical control of either branch of Congress. They all but wrapped up a Senate majority with the first returns.

It took a lot longer, until this morning's early hours, to clinch the seats that assured them a numerical edge in the House.

And the Democrats were doomed at that point to fall considerably short of their 295 House seats in the last Congress.

Also at that point this was the national picture: House seats 435; majority 218. Democrats had won 223 seats; Republicans 153. Net gain 26 Republicans.

Senate 100 seats; majority 51. At stake 35. Democrats were assured of 61 seats, Republicans 33. Net gain 2 Republicans.

Governors 50. At stake 35. Democrats had won 23, Republicans 19. Net gain 5 Republican.

This wasn't the whole story. In addition to the net gain of 26 seats, the Republicans were leading in enough more to indicate they might wind up with 36.

And in many an instance in the 89th Congress, some of the administration's "Great Society" items squeezed by on less than 25 votes. So the Republican gains were enough to menace the financing or continuation of some programs already under way and more to come. The GOP scored heavily again with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, for a third term in New York. From Massachusetts, the sent to the Senate the first Negro in 85 years, Edward W. Brooke.

In Tennessee, they elected their man as the first Republican ever to win a Senate seat by popular vote. That was Howard H. Baker Jr., the son-in-law of the present Republican leader of the Senate, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

For the first time since Reconstruction days after the Civil War, the GOP picked off the governorship in Florida, with Claude Kirk Jr.

The Democrats recouped a bit with governorship wins for Robert Dacking in Kansas and Kenneth M. Curtis in Maine — two usually staunch Republican states.

Republicans gained control of eight statehouses while losing two, the latter in Kansas and Maine. In contests in 35 states in which Democrats held 20 and the GOP 15, they took governor's offices away from the Democrats in Arizona, California, Florida, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico and Arkansas.

Of the remainder, Democrats were leading in one and the Republicans in five.

Democrats generally were reluctant to assess the outcome. President Johnson spent election night at his Texas ranch and planned no statement on the outcome.

Dirksen called the results "a very significant GOP shift from one end of the country to the other." He added that "it's going to make a tremendous difference in the next Congress."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said the Republican showing is a "clear signal to Hanoi that the House will take a much stronger stand on the present war in Viet Nam." Echoing this, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, head of the GOP's National Campaign Committee, said the election outcome "has made it abundantly clear we mean business in Viet Nam."

Morton, Ford and GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss joined in denying that Viet Nam had been an election issue. They said dissatisfaction with Johnson's economic policies helped the Republicans.

It was an important Republican beachhead Kirk won in Florida — where he defeated the Democratic mayor of Miami, Robert King High, to give the GOP its first hold on the governor's office since Reconstruction days.

Kirk's victory, however, may have been part of a pattern of segregationist reaction in the South to racial disturbances. Kirk charged High with being an ultraliberal who favored the Negroes.

If the extent of the white backlash was not entirely clear in Florida, there was no mistaking its impact in Alabama.

Lurleen Wallace, running as a Democratic stand-in for her segregationist husband, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, defeated Republican James D. Martin, not quite as outspoken as she and the governor on the issue. She was the first woman governor ever elected in Alabama and the first of her sex to win the office in 42 years in any state.

This victory put Wallace into gear for a third-party bid for the presidency in 1968, a maneuver that might cost the Republicans more dearly in electoral votes than President Johnson, if the latter does the expected and runs for a second elective term.

Cairo Ignores U.S. Message on Viet Nam

By GARVEN HUDGINS

CAIRO (AP) — The American message on Viet Nam is being ignored or is not getting across in Cairo, one of the major capitals with ties to both East and West.

Official statements on Viet Nam and editorials in the government-controlled press invariably called on the United States to withdraw. There is no mention of reciprocal withdrawals by North Vietnamese forces the United States claims have infiltrated the south.

Nor is there any equation made between the somewhat analogous situation in which Egypt finds itself. Some 50,000 of its troops are in Yemen to support the republican regime of President Abdullah al-Sallal.

The apparent mistrust of U.S. motives seems to go beyond traditional resentment of U.S. policy toward Israel.

During 1965, there were 2,347,125 fires of all kinds in the United States.

Disaster Teams Man Italy Dikes

By BENNET M. BOLTON

ROME (AP) — Disaster teams manned the dikes around the clock today in the Po River delta, fighting to keep Italy's mightiest river from unleashing new floods.

Earth-moving machinery, bucket cranes, sandbags, picks, shovels and floodlights were thrown into the feverish operation south of Venice. The Po rose about an inch an hour during the night.

Only about 4,000 of the delta's 10,000 inhabitants had left their homes Monday night, but increased concern over the resistance of the dikes caused the number of evacuees to mount.

Rescue and relief work continued full scale throughout five regions of northern and central Italy stricken in last weekend's unprecedented floods. The economy of one-third of the nation was wrecked, and a Cabinet meeting was called today to form an emergency aid plan.

Military helicopters flew 800 missions Monday with food and medicine to persons stranded in precarious locations.

Columns of trucks carried huge plastic bags of fresh water communities whose pipelines were broken or contaminated.

Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani told Parliament there were 72 identified dead and 35 missing, but casualty reports were far from complete. Estimates of the dead ran as high as 300.

Research Brings New Hope In Treatment of Arthritis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Arthritis Foundation has recently brought two of its pamphlets up-to-date. "Today's Facts About Arthritis" discusses the cause, symptoms, diagnosis and treatment of rheumatoid arthritis (the crippling kind) and osteoarthritis with a brief mention of gouty arthritis and several less common varieties. The pamphlet on rheumatoid arthritis covers this disease in somewhat greater detail.

In both pamphlets great emphasis is placed on the fact that no case of this disease is hopeless and that the outlook is constantly getting brighter with the discovery of new methods of treatment.

The foundation also has pamphlets on diet and arthritis, on home care for the arthritic and on rheumatoid arthritis in children. Any of these that you need can be obtained free either from local chapters in 79 major cities in this country or by writing to The Arthritis Foundation, Box 2525, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Asks for a Vote He Was Sure to Lose

BONN, Germany (AP) —

West Germany's Bundestag urged Chancellor Ludwig Erhard today to ask for a formal vote of confidence which he would almost certainly lose.

Erhard said in advance he would not comply.

The vote was 255-246 on a Socialist motion which Erhard does not have to heed. The Socialists were joined by the Free Democrats, until Oct. 27. Erhard's allies in a coalition government.

The chancellor's Christian Democratic party voted against the motion.

The Bundestag can only replace the chancellor if a majority can agree on a successor. So far it has been unable to do this.

Erhard lost his majority Oct. 27 when the Free Democrats, who have 49 members in the Bundestag, quit his coalition government in opposition to tax raises he planned to balance the budget and finance arms purchases. The government had pledged to make from the United States.

Florida Gets Republican Governor

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Investment broker Claude Kirk, crashing boldly across party lines in a year of strange and unpredictable issues, has captured the Florida governor's office for the Republicans for the first time in nearly a century.

The 40-year-old Kirk, backed by big business and industry, sent his favored opponent, Miami's Mayor Robert King High, down to crushing defeat in Tuesday's election.

Returns from 2,426 of Florida's 2,561 precincts gave Kirk 778,786 votes to 626,615 for High.

The stunning political upset developed as party loyalties in this heavily Democratic state were submerged in a wave of public passion over racial rioting, high living costs and war.

They were issues of national concern, with little if any bearing on a governor's race, but Kirk hammered at them relentlessly and turned them to his benefit as voters expressed at the polls their disenchantment with the Johnson administration.

Almost immediately after the outcome was known, Kirk's election was hailed by the biggest businessman in Florida Ed Ball, head of the mighty Florida DuPont empire.

Kirk's administration, said Ball, will be "clear of control of labor union bosses, civil rights agitators and the undesirable riffraff of our country." High, as mayor, has fought Ball's interests.

Republican strength is rising in Florida but there was far more than this behind Kirk's triumph. He received almost twice as many votes as there are registered members of his party.

Besides the "white backlash," the war in Viet Nam and the high cost of living, he pounded at recent disclosures that syndicate crime is operating in south Florida.

Kirk, a native Californian who was reared in Illinois and married in Florida but has lived in Florida only 10 years. He came out of nowhere in 1964 to run for the U.S. Senate but was clobbered by Sen. Spessard Holland, who hardly bothered to campaign.

WEST SECOND STREET IN DOWNTOWN HOPE IS OUR NEW LOCATION

In the campaign just ended, The Star supported Rockefeller for governor and Hammerschmidt for Third District congressman — both Republicans and both won in Tuesday's general election.

But any newcomer to Hope might think that the editor might qualify as a political seer. He would get a horse laugh from old-timers. I've been in this town 37 years and I lose more than I win. And that's the way it is. That's how the record would read for a newspaper with vision and courage enough to stand up and be counted.

How the people feel and vote in any particular election is really a single battle — but during them to a true course the long run . . . that means winning the war.

For 12 years the people of Arkansas had been virtually disfranchised by the Faubus state machine, which monopolized campaign funds and left the people with no opposition candidate strength, to vote for. The people this year got revenge, first by electing the Democratic machine in the primaries, and then by electing the new party leader in Tuesday's general election.

No editor has fought Governor Faubus more consistently than I have, circulating at personal expense two state-wide petitions against key Faubus legislative enactments on the sale tax. Jim Hammerschmidt denounced the machine every stump in Arkansas, and he would never tie up with the machine — and immediately after the runoff solicited its support. Besides that, Johnson had an extensive record of constantly opposing in politics while on the state supreme court — and you have the right to expect a judge to be strictly nonpartisan.

The Democratic record being what it was, I, a conservative Democrat, put this newspaper on the line for Republican Winthrop Rockefeller. Hempstead county saw it our way, and in neighboring Nevada the Republican trailed by only a little more than 100 votes.

Thousands felt like your writer. After 12 years of Faubus, the only possible cure for Arkansas Democracy was to go to the bottom and make a fresh start.

I have but one regret about the campaign. Republican John Paul Hammerschmidt defeated incumbent Congressman Jim Trimble, but only narrowly. Hammerschmidt should have won by landslide. Instead of merely endorsing him I should have campaigned for him and contributed to his election fund.

People who squawk about their property bills and the high cost of living and then go out and vote for a professional politician like Jim Trimble ought to have their heads examined. Or maybe it's my head that should be examined. I didn't do a good job of informing our people of the sins of Jim Trimble — for he carried both Hempstead and Nevada counties. It's rubber-stamp congressmen like Trimble who have spent their country into near-bankruptcy, the evidence being our depreciated currency and rising prices. Government doesn't go broke, it is true — but people go broke under the lash of inflation wielded by free-spending politicians.

Hammerschmidt, Harrison Hammerschmidt, is a businessman who knows what it means to have a private payroll — instead of wallowing in the public trough for two decades like Trimble.

Beat every man like Jim Trimble when he comes up for election — and America will start repaying her debt instead of growing more and more each year and pushing prices higher and higher.

Initiated Act No. 1 (compulsory school district consolidation) was inaugurated in every county in the state. I am not surprised. Our endorsement of it was due to a conviction that somewhere Arkansas has to make a start to controlling the waste of political spending of state school funds in the smaller districts.

Rep. Trimble Appears to Be Unseated

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—John Paul Hammerschmidt, a mild-mannered lumber dealer from Harrison, was on the verge today of unseating veteran Democratic Rep. J. W. Trimble in the 3rd District.

Hammerschmidt, the Republican state chairman, filed for the office reluctantly when no other worthy GOP candidate offered himself.

With 722 of 824 precincts reported, the unofficial vote: Hammerschmidt 63,786, Trimble 58,664.

The 44-year-old Hammerschmidt beat the hustings in the district while Trimble stayed in Washington until two weeks before the election and then campaigned sparingly.

Ignoring the opposition, Trimble's major campaign tactic, had worked for him as recently as the Democratic primary when he disposed of two opponents without a runoff.

Hammerschmidt's showing caught political observers by surprise. He was regarded as too politically immature to challenge the 72-year-old Trimble, who was seeking a 12th term.

Active in GOP politics since 1949, Hammerschmidt was the choice of Winthrop Rockefeller, the new governor-elect of Arkansas, for the party chairman's post after an anti-Rockefeller chairman was ousted in 1964.

The role brought him frequently to Little Rock and put his name before the public often in connection with party efforts.

Still, he said when he filed for Congress, he would have rather spent this year building the party and helping Rockefeller in the governor's race.

Hammerschmidt campaigned as a middle-of-the-road Republican. He treated Trimble gently but charged that the veteran congressman went "down the line" with President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Slender and curly haired, Hammerschmidt is not yet at ease on a speaking platform. He tends to quote others to illustrate his positions.

Hammerschmidt is married and has a teen-aged son.

Fighting Lull in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Only light, sporadic ground fighting was reported across Viet Nam today, but American infantrymen turned up a rich booty in Communist arms and supplies in Tay Ninh Province, the scene of almost a week of hard fighting near the Cambodian border.

U.S. 1st Division infantrymen combing Tuesday's battlefield uncovered a tunnel complex that had been part of a regimental command post. In it they found a "massive array" of supplies and equipment and 95 bodies, while nearby they uncovered a mine factory with 450 claymore-type mines.

In another tunnel complex the men of the "Big Red One" found eight submachine guns, 11 machine pistols, 3,000 hand grenades, 1,000 rifle grenades, and large quantities of ponchos, ammunition pouches and other equipment.

The U.S. military command said 865 enemy have been killed by ground fire and air strikes since Operation Attleboro began in Tay Ninh Sept.

selves. Perhaps the deadline on district enumeration was too arbitrary in Act No. 1. A different formula might have attracted more support. But time will tell. The people will only come awake when the threat of a 4 per cent sales tax starts breathing down their necks. Then and then only will they realize the justice of the state demanding some sort of control over the arrangement of small school districts which require 80 to 90 per cent state aid in order to exist.

Romney and Reagan Winners

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paced by actor Ronald Reagan's election as California governor, Republicans won spectacular individual victories across the nation in Tuesday's balloting while making inroads into the Democrats' control of Congress.

While Reagan was inundating Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in California, a new GOP star was rising in industrialist Charles H. Percy's trouncing of veteran Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas in Illinois.

In Michigan, Gov. George Romney barged into the 1968 Republican presidential nomination contention with a landslide third-term victory which swept GOP Sen. Robert P. Griffin and the party's state slate into office.

Edward W. Brooke claimed a voice in GOP councils by getting elected in Massachusetts as the first Negro ever chosen by popular vote as a member of the Senate.

In Tennessee youthful Howard H. Baker Jr. won a seat in the flock shepherded by his father-in-law, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

President Johnson's home state of Texas sent GOP Sen. John G. Tower back for another six-year term in the Senate. Texas also joined in contributing the Republican resurgence in the House by electing two GOP members to break the previously solid Democratic delegation.

Robert Taft Jr., seeking a comeback to Congress after being defeated for the Senate two years ago in the Goldwater debacle, held a slim lead over his Democratic opponent, Rep. John J. Gilligan with two-thirds of the vote counted in Ohio's 1st District.

There were stunning GOP gubernatorial victories for Winthrop Rockefeller in Arkansas and for Claude Kirk Jr. in Florida. Since Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller won re-election in New York, future governors' conferences will have a brother act for the first time in memory.

Democrats, with holdover majorities from their 1964 landslide, retained top-heavy numerical control of both houses of Congress.

But a Republican gain which could reach 45 seats — 33 were nailed down — threatened to change the political atmosphere of the new House, boding ill for future "Great Society" proposals of President Johnson. Gone would be the current Democratic majority of 295 to 140 over the Republicans and with it the fine edge of support needed for several presidential programs.

A potential Republican gain of three in the Senate would not provide too much political pain for the Democrats, now holding a 67-33 margin there. The addition of liberal Republicans might assuage what little there was.

Pilkinton Clings to Slim Lead

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Democrat James H. Pilkinton defeated Maurice (Footsie) Britt today in the closest statewide contest in Tuesday's general election.

The former chancery judge saw his lead dwindle to about 1,500 votes during the morning, but by noon he lead by about 5,000.

With 2,272 of 2,549 boxes counted, the unofficial tally showed: Rockefeller 222,824, Johnson 198,719.

Pilkinton made the race after apparently being counted out in the first Democratic preferential primary, when reported vote totals put him third among eight candidates.

Corrected vote totals from Clark County, however, ousted the second man in the race, Joe Basore, and Pilkinton handily beat front-runner Claude Carpenter in the run-off primary. Pilkinton had hastily put together a campaign four days before the election.

Britt, a Medal of Honor Winner in World War II, was making his first campaign for political office. The 46-year-old Little Rock businessman received substantial help from Winthrop Rockefeller, the GOP gubernatorial candidate, and accompanied Rockefeller on many campaign trips.

Pilkinton persistently sidestepped a question as to whether he supported the political philosophy of Jim Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor. He said he was a Democrat, would honor his party pledge and would vote for all Democratic candidates.

His and Britt's campaign stirred little uproar. Pilkinton charged, however, that Britt had no experience to qualify him to be governor. Britt challenged Pilkinton to say whether he supported Johnson's political philosophy.

Pilkinton, 52, is the Hope city attorney and formerly served as state senator and prosecuting attorney as well as chancellor. In the 1964 presidential campaign, he was chairman of the Arkansas Democrats for Lyndon Johnson organization.

Republican Win Rockefeller New Gov. of Arkansas

Griffin Wins Re-election as Sheriff

Voters of Hempstead County followed the state trend in Tuesday's general election, casting a record voter, and splitting the ticket right down the middle.

The County went for Republican Win Rockefeller by a vote of 3507 to 3256 over Jim Johnson. Native son James H. Pilkinton polled 4071 votes to 2443 for Maurice (Footsie) Britt; for Lt. Governor; the County gave Joe Purcell 3,993 votes to 2242 for Jerry K. Thomasson, republican, in the race for attorney general and Initiated Act No. 1, school consolidation issue, went down to defeat by a 3,776 to 1,445 vote.

The only County race on the ballot saw incumbent Jimmie Griffin poll 4,006 votes to defeat Independent candidate Brooks Collins in the race for sheriff.

The County road tax didn't win by a very wide margin, the vote being 2927 for and 2178 against. Republican Leon Prescott polled 1,296 votes in the race for constable of DeRoan township while Terrell Ingersoll, the Democratic candidate, polled 1,853 votes.

In the congressional race this county went for incumbent Jim Trimble over Republican John Paul Hammerschmidt by 3,546 to 2781.

GOP Write-in Leading in Georgia

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's first two-party election for governor in a century turned into a cliff-hanger early today as Democrat Lester G. Maddox clung to a narrow lead but slid back in a battle with a Republican and a write-in candidate.

Late-counted urban votes and the write-in ballots threatened to rob either Maddox or Republican Howard H. (Bo) Callaway of a majority and throw the election into the Legislature and the courts.

Maddox slid and Callaway gained in returns from the cities. Possibly holding the balance of victory were the write-in votes for moderate Ellis G. Arnall, who was defeated by segregationist Maddox for the Democratic nomination.

In 1,264 of 1,886 precincts reported: Maddox 232,385, Callaway 286,126, Arnall 33,556.

The combined vote of Callaway and Arnall gave them 52.1 per cent as Maddox's majority er, Nelson, was winning a third term as governor of new York. It cost Rockefeller three rough years of campaigning, first against Faubus in 1964, then against Johnson for the last four months.

He spent liberally of his own money and of funds raised by an increasingly vocal Republican minority.

His campaign against Faubus fell apart in the last two weeks.

Negro Wins Seat in U. S. Senate

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have gained two new Senate seats and have scored a dramatic triumph by electing the first Negro ever chosen for the body by popular vote. They appeared on their way to capturing a third seat from the Democrats in Oregon where Gov. Mark O. Hatfield maintained a lead over Rep. Robert Duncan with 81 per cent of the votes counted. The Democrats easily retained control of the Senate in Tuesday's voting but, despite high hopes in several states, failed to unseat a single Republican in the 30 contested races already decided. With only two races still remaining unsettled, the Senate lineup stood at 64-34 Democratic. It was 67-33 in the 89th Congress which adjourned last night.

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke was the Negro factor in one of the nation's most closely watched Senate races. He will be the first member of his race to serve in the Senate since Reconstruction. Brooke handily defeated the Republican challenger, Gov. Francis W. Peabody. Brooke's triumph, along with some of the other GOP new faces that emerged in the election, is likely to strengthen the party's liberal wing in the Senate. The two GOP pickups of seats were held by Democrats came Illinois — where industrialist Charles H. Percy smashed the hopes of veteran Sen. Paul H. Douglas for a fourth term. Tennessee — where Howard Baker, son-in-law of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, trounced the one-time orator, Gov. Frank G. Clement.

Another major Republican victory came in Michigan. Sen. Bert P. Griffin won handily over former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who had gained recognition as the most potent Democratic vote-getter in Michigan history.

All Democratic incumbents in the South turned back Republican challenges, winning in Alabama, South Carolina, Virginia, Mississippi and North Carolina. At two Southern Republican strongholds, Strom Thurmond in South Carolina and John G. Tower in Texas — also held onto their seats.

Tower's victory was particularly satisfying to the GOP since he fills the Senate post formerly occupied by President Johnson.

Brooke, Percy and Hatfield have taken positions which put them in the moderate to progressive wing of the party. Two GOP veterans who won by stunning margins Tuesday, Clifford Case in New Jersey and John Sherman Cooper in Kentucky, have been in this wing.

Emigrant of 9 Realizes Dream

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pol- born Beys Afroyim emigrated to the United States in 1912, was 19.

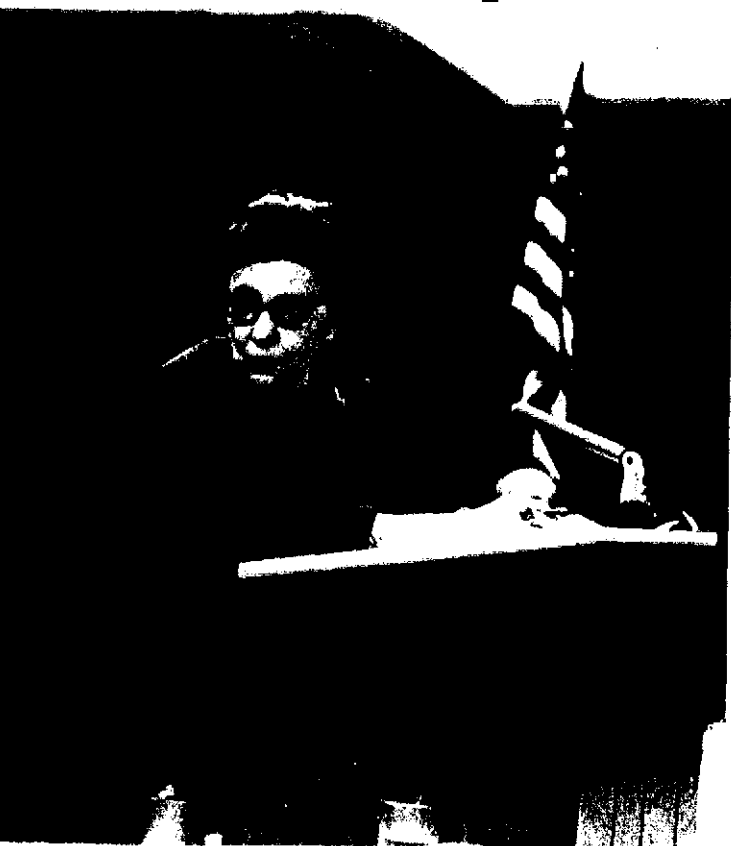

Thirteen years later, he realized a dream held by hundreds of thousands of refugees to these shores: he became an American citizen by naturalization. Today at age 73, however, Afroyim is no longer a citizen, though he claims allegiance to the United States. The reason is that while in Israel in 1951, he voted in an election for the Knesset, Israel's legislative body.

Afroyim's situation is by no means unique. From 1961 through 1965, the State Department ruled 5,173 U.S. citizens had lost their citizenship because they voted in foreign elections. And the same thing happened to another 425 in the first six months of this year. The State Department felt the law was clear, for a section of the 1940 Nationality Act says:

"A person who is a national of the United States, whether by birth or naturalization, shall lose his nationality by voting in a political election in a foreign country."

The New York Civil Liberties Union, acting on Afroyim's behalf, has won Supreme Court review of the constitutionality of the law, after two lower courts had upheld the State Department. The Supreme Court in recent years has shown itself increasingly reluctant to strip a man of citizenship, some of the numbers contending that such

A vital right is too precious to lose for anything less than compelling reasons.

At the moment, the government has the power to take away citizenship in six general areas. In addition to renunciation of citizenship or voting in a foreign election, they are:

Obtaining naturalization in a foreign country, serving in the armed forces of a foreign country, under certain circumstances working for a foreign government, and taking an oath of allegiance to a foreign government.

1966 Election Campaigns Not Intellectual

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1966 election campaigns were hardly intellectual — what campaigns are? — but the big political mystery of the year was that master politician, President Johnson.

Some day, although it's not in sight in our lifetime, political scientists will be kept busy reflecting on the 20th century American mind, the politicians' and the voters'.

Instead of debating the issues exhaustively on television so the people could reach reasonable judgments on them and their ideas, the politicians spent much of their time trying to persuade the voters by shaking hands.

The explanation is simple: It's a way of keeping in the public eye and maybe the public mind. Since this is an ancient custom, it wasn't unique in 1966. Johnson himself has no equal in this field, as "presser of the flesh."

Sir Winston Churchill understood the public eye bit very early as a young man who wanted to get elected to Parliament but first had to make an impression.

When he was on the North-west Indian frontier in 1897 Churchill wrote a letter to his mother — it's in the just-published first volume of a three-volume biography by his son, Randolph S. Churchill — which said:

"I rode my grey pony all along the skirmish line where everyone else was lying down in cover. Foolish perhaps but I play for high stakes and given an audience there is no act too

In Congress Johnson needs all the Democrats he can get. Even if the Republicans today capture 30 or so House seats, the Democrats would still have a majority and keep control.

But the fewer the Democrats, the harder it will be for Johnson to get his programs through these next two years. And his success with programs may affect his chances for re-election in 1968.

Nevertheless, although a lot of his Democrats needed help, he did extremely little campaigning for them and in October, as the campaigns reached their peak, he went off on a 17-day trip to Asia.

Since he undoubtedly could have postponed this until after the election, the unanswered question is: Why did he do it when he did?

Perhaps he thought the headlines he'd make every day as the American commander in chief around the world would do his Democrats more good than any number of speeches he might have made at home.

There's no evidence they did. But Johnson has a lot in common with Churchill. Both men sought fame and recognition all their lives. And Johnson, as Churchill did, loves a gallery.

daring or too noble. Without the gallery, things are different."

Still, it was strange to see

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, Illinois Democrat and one of the truly intellectual members of Congress, waiting outside factory gates to shake hands with men he had never met and probably wouldn't again.

But it was all mutual.

People who might have voted more intelligently if they had spent more time studying the issues and what the candidates said, turned out in thousands to see the politicians and bowed one another over in the rush to shake hands with Johnson, or Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or some lesser light running for office.

Purcell Is Easy Atty. Gen. Winner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Soft-spoken Democrat Joe Purcell, a quite campaigner, won the office of attorney general of Arkansas Tuesday over hard-fighting Republican Jerry Thomasson.

Purcell was the first of three candidates for state office to be declared a winner as votes were being counted Tuesday night.

A political unknown when he filed for the office in April, the 43-year-old former city attorney and municipal judge at Benton, defeated Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett in a rough and tumble runoff primary, then virtually ignored Thomasson during the general election campaign.

He will succeed Bennett in January in an office which has in the past been a stepping stone to the governor's chair.

Purcell would not claim victory Tuesday night, even after The Associated Press declared him a winner on a basis of unofficial returns. Thomasson conceded around midnight.

The nearly complete unofficial count showed: Purcell 267,503, Thomasson 224,408.

Thomasson, a Democrat turned Republican, went into race with experience in the state legislature and he kept his name in the headlines with a series of attacks on Democratic Party leaders.

He made a constant effort to link Purcell with those he was criticizing.

Purcell refused to be drawn into a debate on personalities. He said he was running, as he had against Bennett, on his qualifications and a platform of "dignity, responsibility and stability."

The 43-year-old Purcell was city attorney for six years before he was elected municipal judge in 1959. He resigned the judgeship moments before he filed for attorney general, catching capitol newsmen by surprise.

Observers had expected a major opponent for Bennett, who was involved in an increasing number of controversies during the last two years.

When only Purcell and Kenneth Coffey, a Little Rock attorney, filed against Bennett, Bennett was expected to win and he barely escaped victory in the first primary. Purcell demolished him in the runoff.

Purcell is married and has two children.

Would Keep Out Riots, Litterbugs

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Deborah League says that if she were elected governor of South Carolina, she would "have no litterbugs or rioting and no high food prices so none of us would complain."

Deborah and other fourth and fifth grade pupils at Spartanburg's Jesse Boyd Elementary School wrote short themes on "If I Were Governor" on the eve of today's elections.

Many of the children said they would work to help Negroes. Almost all said teen-agers should vote to pass a law to "higher children's allowances."

Many a man who thinks he's the head of the family finds out he's just the figure-head.

To run for president, a candidate must be at least 35 years old, which saves us from ever having a woman president.

Columbus might not have been such a great discoverer

if he had been looking for a parking place.

With DDD, a Little Voice Goes a Long Way

A little voice goes a long way — and carries a lot of impact — after you've dialed your own long distance call direct, by DDD. It's truly the "next best thing to being there." In addition, direct distance dialing is so easy, so fast, and so economical. Just dial "1," then the correct three-digit area code, then the distant telephone number. Presto, in seconds, a voice you'd love to hear is adding meaning to your day. Make a DDD call after 8 p.m. today — or all day Sunday — when long distance rates are lowest.
